

Jimena MAZZUCCO

jimenamazucco@gmail.com

UNED, Spain

Josefa ROS VELASCO

josros@ucm.es

ESIC University, Spain

The induction of boredom through the clothing in prison

To wear the same clothing everyday imposed by other is the beginning of the impossibility of construction our identity. To promote the social reintegration of the people in prison we need to change the way they relationship with the clothes are being nowadays. the first sign of humiliation is the prison uniform. From 1840 until present authority try to undermine people in prison. Boredom appears in the people in prison's mind when everyday they wear the same prison uniform, as if it were the worst of all stigmas on those who commit faults. as if it were the worst of all stigmas on those who commit offenses, taking away their ability to reintegrate into society, nullifying their hopes, their ability to accept the mistake, pay for the guilt and return to society. The induction of boredom caused by having to wear the same clothes every day makes them incapable of constructing an identity other than the one chosen for them by others.